FAVORS EAST RIVER ROAD

SO SAYS B. H. PIEPMEIER TO ROSENDALE PAPER.

CHOSEN FOR SERVICE

The Highway Commission Has Settled Upon This Location, Piepmeier States.

B. H. Piepmeier, highway engineer, in a statement to the Rosendale Signal this week, says the east road has been selected as the route from the concrete pavement south of Maryville to Savannah. He gives as the reason for the east road selection as serving more of the traveling public and as it will best serve all in reaching their main market centers, such as Maryville, Barnard, Rosendale, Savannah and St. Joseph.

Mr. Piepmeier admits from a strictly engineering, construction and maintenance standpoint, the Bennett Lane route would have been chosen.

His statement follows:

"There seems to be some difference of opinion as to the wisdom of the State Highway Commission's action in selecting what is known as the river location for the state highway between Savannah and Maryville.

"From a strictly engineering, construction, and maintenance standpoint, the Bennett Lane route would have been chosen, as this location is on higher ground. If all of our roads, however, were located strictly on engineering principles, many of them would deviate far from the location intended by the law and from locations which would best serve the traveling public. Our chief purpose in building roads is to serve the traveling public. This service stands above construction cost and maintenance cost.

"The two contending routes between Savannah and the concrete road south of Maryville were carefully considered by the Commission. The east location was selected not because of its cost of construction, but because it will serve the traveling public best and will prove to be the better location, as, after improvements are made, a large portion of the bottom land will be reclaimed.

"State roads must be located so as to serve the main thoroughfares and so that feeders or connecting roads can be built to render the maximum service to surrounding communities. It is very evident that the location as made renders better service to the people living along and in the vicinity of Route 48 from Kang City to Rosendale. The location of this road as made, does not add any distance to be traveled by the population living north and west of Savannah. The location selected, therefore, is one which will provide the shortest possible road for through traffic and will best serve all in reaching their main market centers, which are Maryville, Barnard, Rosendale, Savannah and St. Joseph. These factors are the ones taken into consideration by the Commission when making final decisions as to the location of our state roads.

"The Commission has settled upon this location and will proceed to make the survey in the near future, so that the road can be definitely and accurately located along the route chosen. After the survey is made and plans are prepared, it is the intention of the State Highway Department to place this portion of the route under contract as soon as finances are made available."

WASHINGTON NOT EXCITED

OFFICIALS THINK STRIKE WILL BE SHORT DURATION.

STRIKE ORDER ISSUED

Copies of Suspension Orders to Anthracite Mine Unions Will Be Received Today.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., August 28.—Plans for the suspension of work in the anthracite mines Tuesday went forward quietly as the Business Men's Committee continued its attempt to solve the situation. On the surface the order to quit work appeared to have little effect. Coal dealers who have been rushed during the past two weeks continued to visit the mines in order to supply local coal men.

One of the developments of the situation is that hundreds of miners will find their own cellars practically empty, they forgetting to take care of their own wants while outsiders had placed their orders. The railroads are giving their co-operation in supplying cars so that the coal can be moved quickly to its destination.

Although the miners will not suspend operations Monday it is expected that most of the day will be devoted to the removal of tools, general equipment and the mules will then be taken out.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28. — An agreement was reached today between the anthracite operators and miners as to the maintenance of the crews to be kept in the mines during the coal strike, called for next Tuesday, according to John L. Lewis, today, president of the United Mine Workers of America. Those at the meeting, members of the anthracite commission board of operators and representatives of the miners signed the covenant.

Philadelphia, Pa., August 28.—At the stroke of midnight next Monday, 158,000 coal miners in the anthracite regions will lay down picks and shovels. Copies of the suspension order, signed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, will be received today by 523 local miners' unions.

Failure to reach a renewal of the two-year agreement between operators and anthracite miners, which expires September 1, is responsible for the proclamation.

The operators refused to accede to the miners' agreement, which included a $1 a day increase in wages and recognition of the check-off.

Washington, August 28.—Government officials refused to become excited over the action taken by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, in calling out the anthracite miners on September 1. Officials have been prepared for the blow, as confidential information reached them beforehand of Lewis' intentions to take action.

While the administration has adopted a "hands off" policy, no effort will be spared to keep the country supplied with an adequate supply of bituminous coal and other substitutes.

Little apprehension is felt that the country will suffer unless the strike becomes long and drawn out. Opinion is widespread among the officials that the contentions between the miners and operators will be of short duration. It is pointed out that each day the strike is in effect anthracite operators will lose customers who are weaned away to bituminous coal and other substitutes.

Philadelphia, Aug. 28.—A suspension in the hard coal fields September 1 was called last night by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The suspension was called because the miners were unable to obtain from the operators a 10 per cent wage increase, adoption of the check-off, equalization of wages for day workers and various other demands they made conditional to renewal of the wage contract expiring August 31.

The order involves a walkout of 158,000 men, of whom about ten thousand probably will be left in the mines for maintenance work, such as the prevention of flooding and cave-ins.

Mr. Lewis said issuance of the suspension call had been held up as long as possible in the hope of coming to terms with the operators on the question of maintenance men. Failing to agree yesterday, the union could wait no longer in making the call, he said, because of the mechanical problem of reaching 158,000 workers embraced by 325 union locals in the region in time for action Monday midnight.

Mr. Lewis said the miners would attend the meeting of the anthracite board of conciliation today and there co-operate in every way with the operators in attempts to settle the question.

A supplementary order then will follow last night's suspension call, containing whatever agreement is reached.

BAKER IS TO RETAIN NIX

RESIGNATION OF WARDEN IS NOT ACCEPTED.

NO OTHER CHANGES

Governor Says Regarding Rumors of Changes in the State Prison Board.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 28—Governor Baker late yesterday refused to accept the resignation of S. T. Nix as warden of the state penitentiary.

The resignation resulted from criticism of Warden Nix for permitting Lonnie Affronti, convicted bandit, to come to Kansas City without a guard.

The governors statement explained that investigation had revealed that in no less than twenty instances of former administrations had prisoners been given similar privileges.

The Governor's statement:

"Several days ago I issued a statement regarding the resignation of Warden Nix. At that time I stated that I had received his resignation but would not dispose of it until I had completed some investigations that I had been making regarding other members of the board as well as the matter which prompted the resignation of Mr. Nix. I have completed these investigations and wish to announce the resignation of Mr. Nix will not be accepted.

"Mr. Nix made a mistake in allowing an inmate of the prison to visit Kansas City without a guard but, like a man, as soon as he realized his mistake he tendered his resignation to me in order that I might have a free rein in reorganizing the board. Investigations reveal that in no less than twenty instances in former administrations inmates of the prison have been permitted to go on furloughs without guard or escort. Mr. Nix, therefore, had precedent for his action in permitting this one man to go to Kansas City. This practice of allowing inmates of the penitentiary to go on furloughs without guard or escort will cease during my term of office.

"There have been rumors also of other contemplated changes on the prison board. I wish to state further in this connection that there will be no changes on this board. In my investigations I have found some practices that are not entirely in accord with my policies but after conferences with members of the board, I am sure that these practices will cease and that the board will work harmoniously in the administration of the institution."

GEN. ANDREWS IS CONFIDENT

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT WILL BE EFFECTED.

ON A BUSINESS BASIS

Doesn't Claim Country is Dry But Asserts Determination to Restore Respect for Law.

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1925 by United Press)

Washington, Aug. 28.—"I am trying to put prohibition enforcement upon a dignified, business basis."

Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, in an exclusive, authorized interview with the United Press, summed in these words the work he has done since his appointment five months ago to the task of drying up the nation.

"We must get away from sentimentality and restore respect for federal law enforcement."

No heroics in the attitude of this smiling, soft-spoken ruddy-faced retired army officer towards his job. No announcement of "smashing drives." No claims that the country is "dry." Just quiet confidence.

"I think I can put it over" said Gen. Andrews.

As an example of how the new assistant secretary of the treasury is employing business methods in his work, he has appointed Walton A. Green, a retired army officer, a lawyer and a Harvard graduate to check up on the results.

"The country is spending $11,000,000 a year on prohibition enforcement" explained Andrews. "It is entitled to know what it is getting for the money."

"No check up would be as bad as for a business firm to spend millions of dollars in advertising and not endeavor to ascertain the effect on its sales."

It was in the old fashioned parlor of a rambling Georgetown colonial house that the general, who had been putting in twenty hours a day at his new task, leaned back in his chair, sipped meditatively at some lemonade, told for the first time the story of probihition since he was sworn in last April and outlined his plans for the future.

"I get a lot of kidding about this sort of thing," remarked Andrews, apropos of the lemonade, with an infectious grin. "I used to be a drinking man myself. In fact some of my friends called me a heavy drinker.

"When I was sworn in I went on the wagon. I've been too busy to miss it."

The new assistant secretary of the treasury was summoned to the job from a lucrative practice in New York City. He had been chief executive of the transient commission receiver for the New York and Queens Railway. Andrews is 58 and retired from the army in 1919 after thirty years of service.

"This is the way I looked at it when I took the job" said Andrews. "Violating of the Eighteenth Amendment involves corruption and bribery and thus constitutes a direct menace to government."

"Liquor cannot be brought into the country or shipped from one place to another without the law being violated. We know it has come in and has been shipped and we know this has been accomplished.

"It was by bribery."

The general pointed to the record of former prohibition agents discharged from the service as evidence of some dishonesty.

"The greatest single enemy with which we have to contend is the big bootlegger, a criminal who uses corruption as his principal weapon.

"To catch this man and stop his game of gathering liquor and distributing it to consumers is perhaps the biggest factor in our job."

With this for a promise, Andrews organized the prohibition forces, divided the country into districts and appointed 24 regional administrators.

"I have tried to get the kind of men to whom salary is not the principal

UNIVERSAL DISTRUST.

All this talk about the "brotherhood of man" causes one to wonder if the foundations for such an idealistic relationship have yet been laid. It is a fact that the civilized world has long been laboring on those very foundations, but do they now stand completed? From the evidence in the case the verdict must be that they are not.

"A "brotherhood of man" must be preceded by a universal faith in man. As long as individuals, nations and races can not—or at least do not—trust one another there can be no world brotherhood.

Mutual distrust seems as instinctive in man as in the jungle beasts. The World War was a war of distrust and international fear. Nations maintain large armies and navies because they distrust their neighbors and men pass laws because they lack faith in the honesty or judgment of each other.

Is man as faithless and untrustworthy as he appears in his own eyes? The Bible counsels man that "It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man," and man seems to have interpreted that counsel to mean that man is nowise to be trusted.

People do not trust their neighbors and place less trust in their public servants. Mutual distrust is partially responsible for the motorist-pedestrian, fundamentalist-modernist, capitalist-labor and racial controversies. This particular age has also generated a lack of confidence between young and old.

Perhaps there is greater faith in man today than at any other time in recorded history. There is much to sustain such a conclusion. But man still lacks that universal understanding and faith which is essential to a "brotherhood of man."

SOMETHING NEW.

At last the world has found that "something new under the sun" so long considered non-existent. It is only an opinion, but for originality it is incomparable. This latest creation of this amazing age is nothing more than a public utterance of a London physician:

"Imitation plays an important part in the formation of habit and character among infants. If one baby hears another crying or making odd sounds he will do likewise. We had recently in the nursery training school an Indian baby who had so closely imitated the foghorn which he heard on shipboard coming to England that the hotel proprietors here refused to keep him in their rooms. Another baby was brought to us because he made a noise like the whistle of a locomotive, a habit he had picked up because his parents lived near a railroad station."

This more amusing than amazing theory, if carried to its logical conclusion would permit the abolition of the crying baby by the simple method of isolation during the formative years. Unfortunately for the physician's theory many parents retain a distinct recollection that their first-born, or last-born, as the case may be, proclaimed its arrival in this world with as lusty wails as can be produced by any ten-day old patient in a crowded public maternity ward.

Newspapermen have long speculated on the size of newspaper that would be required in a community in which the entire populace had a well-developed "nose for news" and donated its services to the home paper. The introduction of advertising and publicity into new fields is gradually answering that question.

Mysterious Hand Car Found at Barnard

Car Caused Much Interest and Loss of Sleep On Part of Officers On Monday Night.

(Barnard Bulletin)

Mysteries of mysteries! A three-wheel railroad handcar abandoned on the railroad right-of-way north of Barnard—several tools found near the scene, an all night vigil, mysterious strangers, a return to the abandoned car on the part of the unknown—all makes an interesting speculation.

Monday Chas. Manley found the three-wheel handcar north of town on the railroad right-of-way, hidden in the weeds. He reported the find to the officers. That night Deputy Sheriff John Rasco, Dean Campbell, Walt Randall, Paul Stalling and Chas. Manley went to the scene, hid in the weeds and waited until the tall wee hours of the morning without seeing any one who might have left the vehicle hidden.

Between the time of finding the car and the night watch, some one had returned to the car and placed a box on it, containing tools. A broken handle on the car probably caused it to be abandoned.

Telegrams were sent to several nearby railroad stations, in an effort to learn whether any handcars answering the description were missing. However, the section boss from Bolckow told R. E. Cook, agent here, that his opinion was that an employee of the railroad company had taken the car out for the midnight frolic without permission, and had broken it and abandoned it, returning to his home some other way. He gave it as his opinion that the car belonged at Maryville.

Two strangers were seen in Barnard after the car had been found and all efforts to determine who they were and where they came from were unavailing to the officers. It might have been that some deviltry was on foot and was nipped in the bud by the finding of the car.

The car was brought to the station at Barnard and is now in the care of Agent Cook. No clue to where it came from or why it was left in the weeds has been definitely found up to this time.

It was later ascertained that the hand-car had been stolen from the Arkoe station Sunday night. The car has been returned there.

Marine Given Two Years Imprisonment

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 28.—Private George Dean, a member of the marine corps recently on duty at Swampscott with the Presidential bodyguard, has been sentenced to two years imprisonment followed by a dishonorable discharge for refusal to obey orders, the navy department announced today.

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 28.—Refusal to bathe in the Atlantic and as one of the orders that Private Dean of the marines disobeyed, he is the first of three marines guarding the summer White House, got into trouble and his case led to the circulation of reports of gay parties at the camps and the privates compelled by the officers to serve as waiters for north shore girls. Dean was sentenced to two years imprisonment.

Biggest of All Finds of Contraband Made

New York, August 28.—One of the largest of liquor storage finds in the United States was pulled off today at Flat Rock yards when federal officers confiscated 1,000 barrels and 100,000 quart bottles of intoxicating beverages. The contraband was found in cars with the 100,000 bottles ready for distribution in 900 different bottles.

Hobbies of the Great and Near Great in American National Life

Senator Burton K. Wheeler.

Although Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D. of Mont.), was swept to the crest of national prominence by his ability as a "prosecutor," that role is his pet aversion.

While his conduct of the Senatorial investigation of the Department of Justice won him national recognition and a Vice-Presidential nomination, Wheeler actually dislikes that type of work. He gets his greatest delight from the other side of the legal defense—the role of an attorney for the defense.

This is one of the many contrasts in the private life of Senator Wheeler. He is famed for his activities in a Senate committee room, yet he loves to roam the great outdoors. He is noted as a prosecutor, and yet he thrills to being on the defense. This desire is a hobby with him, and before he came to Washington he was known throughout Montana as one of that State's greatest trial lawyers.

Has Six Children.

The Senator has six other hobbies. They are Edward, Richard, Frances, Elizabeth, John and the infant Wheeler. They are the "Wheeler tribe" to him, and upon them he bestowes a world of affection. Playing with his children is one of the Senator's chief recreations. He takes them on long motor rides; he fishes with the elder sons; he even puts on the boxing gloves with the boys.

It is whispered around the Wheeler home here that on one occasion the man who battled the Department of Justice almost single handed, picked out too much opposition. That experience came when he boxed, simultaneously, with three of the Wheeler boys.

"My eldest son," the Senator told a friend, "can handle himself pretty well, and once, when the three elder boys got after me, they gave me a real tussle."

An eye-witness even said the verdict would have gone to the boys.

Lives In Cabin.

The Senator's best loved sport is fishing. In the summer the Wheelers maintain a log cabin in Glacier National Park, Montana. The Senator and his boys roam the hills, following old Indian trails and fishing in secluded mountain lakes.

"I love to fish in these mountain lakes," says the Senator. "I like to pack a camping outfit on my back, tramp off to a tiny lake hidden in the hills and fish in that great soiltude. There is nothing in life half so delightful as old Nature herself, and out in the West she is at her best."

Wheeler is best known for his legal activities. His career in the law is a drama of the West. He has always fought against the corporations, and his name in Montana is a synonym for successful fights against corporate interests. It is said he never lost a personal damage suit against a railroad. The law to him is part of life.

Favors Under Dog.

"I enjoy the law," he explains, "especially the trial of cases. Although I was a prosecuting attorney for five years during the World War, I always get the greatest kick out of acting as a defense attorney. My sympathies are always with the under dog."

Wheeler, incidentally, revealed that he did not relish his role of "prosecutor" in the Daugherty investigation.

"I never liked the position of investigating corruption in the Government service," he said. "I felt the Department of Justice was in a deplorable state, and, although it was unpleasant and disagreeable, once I was started, I felt it my duty to carry it through to the bitter end."

In touching upon the Daugherty investigation, Wheeler asked that his personal views toward former Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty be published.

"Contrary to the impressions given out by the political opponents," he said, "I cherished no personal animosity toward Mr. Daugherty or any of his associates. When I began the investigation I had never so much as seen the Attorney-General and had never had any direct contact with him. My activity in the investigation was purely impersonal."

"Impersonal"—that is really the Wheeler attitude toward the law, criminal cases and political issues. He fights for the pure love of battle, for the defense of his political beliefs, and usually for the under dog.

Tomorrow — Congressman A. J. Sabath.

NOBODY LOVES YOU

It is impossible to get anywhere if you are a crab. Nobody loves you. To be successful you must have a kindly, lovable disposition. You can not have this with an unhealthy liver and stomach. They don't go together. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has given complete and permanent results in thousands of such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. At all druggists.—Adv.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—Every time another country comes to terms with the United States concerning its war indebtedness to the latter it becomes just that much harder for France to continue stalling off a settlement.

To that extent the recently concluded Belgian-American agreement, which otherwise isn't a very brilliant bargain for this nation, is a good thing.

Probably it insures some sort of an arrangement when the French debt commission drops in at Washington in mid-September. The commission would look pretty foolish trying to make out that France can't do at least as well as poor little stepped-on Belgium.

On the other hand the French certainly will ask as good terms as Belgium received. The Belgian compact lops off more than 200 millions in interest, and in the same ratio, France's debt being much larger than Belgium's the former would get a cancellation amounting to something like a billion and a half—quite an item.

The Belgian reduction was granted on the strength of promises made by President Wilson when he was in Paris. So far as the records show, he didn't make similar promises to France, but you can't tell—the French may rake something up yet.

They have wonderful memories for casual promises of a sort calculated, if kept, to save them money. Another thing, during the next ten years the Belgians will make only nominal payments. France is sure to demand a like extension.

Of course it remains for Congress and parliament, in Brussels, to ratify the Belgian-American agreement. Parliament can be depended on to do so. It's too favorable a deal, for the Belgians, to be balked at, on their side—62 years to pay up in, ten years before substantial repayment starts, 200 millions off and 3½ per cent interest.

In congress there may be some kicking. Still, President Coolidge had "O. K.d" the dicker and the chances are he'll have votes enough to get the national legislature's approval. Everybody's sorry for Belgium anyway.

Big Picnic at B. J. Starts Tuesday, Sept. 1

Everything in Readiness for Event—In Charge of the I. O. O. F. Lodge.

(Burlington Junction Post)

Arrangements for the I. O. O. F. picnic at Burlington Junction are about complete. The picnic will start Tuesday of next week and will close on Friday. It is expected that it will be one of the big events of this section this year, and large crowds are looked for every day.

The grounds have been put in first class shape for the event, electric lights have been installed, and city water piped to the grounds.

There will be four base ball games one each afternoon. On the first day the Odd Fellows and Masons will play, and this promises to be an interesting contest. On the second day Burlington Junction will play the Bilby All Stars. On the third day the Service battery will play the town team, and the fourth day Quitman and Burlington Junction will play.

There will be speaking on two days. Wednesday the Odd Fellows will have a speaker here, and on Thursday, which is fraternal day, the Modern Woodmen will have a speaker here. On Thursday evening there will be a torch light parade on Main street.

There will be athletic contests of various kinds and other entertaining features every day.

Wallace Returns From State Meeting

A Better Enforcement of the Game and Fish Laws in Missouri To Be Made.

John A. Wallace, of Maryville, Deputy Game and Fish Commissioner of this district, has returned from Sedalia where he attended a series of meetings held during a three day period of the State Fair, under the direction of the State Game and Fish Commissioner, Keith McCanse. These meetings were held in the form of a general schooling for the purpose of securing a better enforcement of the Game and Fish Laws in Missouri.

Deputy Wallace in commenting on the meeting said "Every man of us learned something new and got a world of good out of the discussions."

"I have come back to my home district full of pep and with a determination to make my district the banner law abiding district of the state.

"To do this I need the cooperation of all interested citizens. I will appreciate and handle in confidence all reports of game and fish law violators brought to my attention."

The State has just been divided inta twenty-five deputy districts with each of the deputies being held responsible for his particular district. Formerly the deputies had no regular districts but worked in the territory around where they resided, sometimes overlapping and probably leaving some territory unprotected.

As a further extension of the plan to properly police the state for violators of Game and Fish Laws, a system of special deputies is being developed. The special deputies will all work under the district deputy and will make regular reports to him. In this way an effective organization will be established to cover the entire state.

During the past few weeks about fifty special deputies have been appointed. The department aims to have a special deputy in every county, it was reported.

In a second count against the Burlington they seek $105 for damages to a shipment of cattle on August 14, 1925.

WHEN PAUL TOUCHED THE POCKET NERVE

Comments on the Uniform International Sunday School Lesson for August 30, 1925

Read Acts 16.

WM. SOUTHERN, JR.

The most sensitive nerve in the human system is the pocket nerve.

Hit a man's pocket nerve and you can hear his screams throughout the neighborhood.

Attempt any reform and immediately those whose pocket nerve is exposed will begin to find many reasons to fight that reform. They will even go to the Bible and quote texts of all sorts.

The pocket nerve becomes exposed and men and women suffer more than they would suffer from any other kind of an attack.

Paul was once beaten until the blood poured from the stripes on his back and then thrown into a filthy underground prison, his feet and hands set in immovable stocks, because he touched the pocket nerve of a bunch of people who were profiting from the expolitation of a poor, demented girl. Here is the story as told by Dr. Luke.

After Paul and Silas and Timothy had been joined by Troas by Dr. Luke, they went across an arm of the sea and inland a little way to the city of Philippi in Macedonia. Here they met Lydia, a prosperous dealer in royal cloth and she was converted to Christianity. The little band of missionaries was invited to Lydia's home and accepted. There was no synagogue in Philippi and the prayer meetings were held each day on the clean banks of the river.

In going to and from the place of prayer each day, Paul passed by a booth where a demented young girl was held by her master as a soothsayer. She read palms or told of the future. Her master exploited this strange power. The girl called after Paul and his party when they passed by and Paul healed her. She immediately became as other women and was no longer of value to her master. Their pocket nerve had been touched and their source of revenue was gone. They were mad, of course, and immediately thought of revenge.

A mob siezed Paul and Silas. Luke and Timothy dodged around a corner and got away. Mobs were just the same then as now, unreasoning and unreasonable and unlawful. The same kind of a mob breaks into jails and hangs men without trial. The mob hauled Paul and Silas before the Roman officials. The mayor and the police judge were holding a session of the municipal court. The mob did not accuse Paul of healing a demented girl, they accused him of being a Jew and disturbing the peace of a Roman community. There are organizations today which would proscribe the Jew because he is a Jew. The Romans had no respect for a Jew and a Jew had few rights in such a community. Roman citizens could not be beaten without a trial, but a Jew was beaten as a preliminary to trial. Paul and Silas were Roman citizens but were given no chance to prove citizenship and their cries went unheeded.

They were cruelly beaten. A bunch of thin switches was used and each blow cut a bloody stripe across the naked back. Then they were thrown into a dungeon and locked in the stocks.

It was midnight. Darkness long ago descended upon the prison. The Roman mayor and police judge were asleep. The jailor deemed his prisoners safe when strange sounds came from the prison. Somebody was singing psalms. The usual noises of the prison were stilled as the criminals listened. The songs came from the room where Paul and Silas were confined. Their wounds had not been dressed. They had been given nothing to drink and nothing to eat. Yet these two men, their bodies twisted into uncomfortable positions and held there were singing praises to God.

Their faith never faltered at misfortune. Most of us would have been silent, or would have been cursing or weeping or groaning. We weep over our temporary troubles when if we really were Christians, when if we really had the faith we profess we would quietly wait the inevitable result. Some of us probably could not sing and if we tried would arouse the neighborhood to reprisals, but we can sing in our souls even if the body is suffering.

Presently the prison where Paul and Silas were confined began to tremble. Then the building shook violently. The door casings spread apart and the bars fell out of the sockets, the stones in the walls loosened and the chains which held the prisoners slipped from the staples. Not only were Paul and Silas free of bonds but so was every other prisoner.

The jailor sprang from his bed. If his prisoners escaped he was a dead man. He was about to kill himself with his sword when he heard a voice from the prison "Do thyself no harm for we are all here." Trembling, he called for lights and there were his prisoners free of bonds, grouped about the singing missionaires.

What happened next is an incident based on strong emotion. Paul and Silas were looked upon as men who had brought an earthquake. Their God was too strong for the local gods. The jailor cared for them, bound up their wounds, gave them clothing and in turn he and his family joined the new Christian church of which until that time only Lydia and her household were members.

The next morning the mayor was scared. He learned that his prisoners were Roman citizens. He ordered them released. He was afraid of his job. But Paul would not be released. He demanded an apology and got it. Thus was the church of Philippi established.

There is another big lesson in this story besides that of tenderness of the pocket nerve. It is the simplicity of becoming a Christian. When the jailor inquired how he could join Paul's new church the reply was "Believe in the Lord Jesus."

There was no demand for fundamentalism nor evolution, nor inspiration nor belief in any creed. There was no requirement of circumcision, there was not even a demand for baptism. Believe on the Lord Jesus and everything else is yours.

To be a Christian means that you will be a good citizen, that you will obey the laws, that you will consider the rights of others, that you will be kind to your fellows, that you will, in short, take the life of Jesus and try to live like He lived and like He wants you to live.

This do and all prison doors open before you, all joys of life and work are yours, misfortunes, bodily ills, money failures, lose their power of grief and like Paul and Silas you may sing even in prison.

3 Held on Suspicion of a Train Robbery

Los Angeles, Calif., August 28.—Two men and a girl were arrested here today on suspicion of robbery and murder in connection with the hold-up of a Santa Fe train near Santa Ana Sunday night.

The leader of the party is being held in connection with a million dollar mail robbery.

Aviator Bootlegger Object of Hijackers

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Irvin Schlieg, youthful aviator bootlegger, according to police was identified as found slain today at Auburn flying field. Police think he is the victim of a gang, when he landed, who were hijacking. Schleig was found suffering several bullet wounds and more than ten miles away from the plane his automobile was found.

According to police records, Schlieg is shown to have been released on bonds a few days ago, pending charges of carrying liquor into this country from Canada.

Steps Taken for the Relief Tex. Farmers

Austin, Tex., Aug. 28.—Governor Ferguson fixed definite steps for the relief of farmers in thirty of the drouth stricken counties of south central Texas when she announced that 200,000 bushels of cotton seed will be sold in that area for half of the market price. The seed has been sold to the state penitentiary system, she said.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Losses were sustained in wheat in today's session on the board of trade.

Coarse grains, except soft corn, displayed independent strength.

From a higher opening, wheat broke sharply on liquidation pressure. At its inspection, the selling was in the nature of profit taking. Highest prices were attained at mid-day.

Free selling weakened September corn and was based on free country offerings. Futures advanced on commission house buying.

Oats advanced fractionally with corn futures.

Offers were light.

Liberal buying of nearby lard by commission houses soared the provisions list upward.

WEEK'S CAMP FOR TEACHERS

TWENTY-FIVE BEARCATS WILL LEAVE HERE SUNDAY.

CAMP NEAR M'FALL

Is For Preliminary Training and Conditioning—Lawrence and Ashcroft to Be Chefs.

For the first time in the history of football at the State Teachers College here, the Fightin' Bearcats will go into pre-season camp for the purpose of preliminary training and conditioning. Coach H. F. Lawrence made the announcement today that he and Assistant Coach, Paul Jones will leave Sunday with twenty or twenty-five men for the camp, which is on the Grand River, three miles from McFall, Mo., and about twelve miles from Albany. Each man will be notified by the coach that he has been selected to go to the camp.

The camp is located on the J. W. Williams place and is known as High Point. The place where the tents will be pitched is on a bluff, facing the Grand River and Coach Lawrence says that the camp site is very free from weeds. There are both meadows and groves adjacent. A fine spring is near the camp and there are convenient swimming places and some fine fishing holes.

The Bearcat coach further announced that the daily routine will include two hours of football work every morning and fishing, hunting and other sports for the purpose of getting the men into condition for the later work on the Maryville gridiron.

The men will be in camp a full week and will return to Maryville, September 6. All camp equipment will be furnished by Battery C, 128 Field Artillery, Missouri National Guard. Coach Lawrence and Johnny Ashcroft will be the camp cooks.

S. E. Teachers Will Train in the Ozarks

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Aug. 28.—Football candidates for the Teachers' College football team will be assembled Sept. 8 at Schumer Springs, a resort forty miles from here. Letters will soon be sent to former members of the Red and Black team and to likely prospects who have enrolled here for the fall term.

In the recess of the Ozark resort the men will undergo training in the rudiments of the gridiron game. Scrimmage maneuvers, kicking and other early season antics will start the program of training. Shortly before the breaking up of camp, in time for the opening of college on Sept. 15, the candidates will be subjected to more rigorous workouts, including tackle work on the dummy.

Athletic authorities of the college are of the opinion that much value will accrue to the athletes as a result of the preseason training.

HANDBOOK OF COLLEGE OUT

CONTAINS MUCH HELPFUL INFORMATION.

HAS SOCIAL CALENDAR

Explains How M Letters Will Be Awarded and Tells of Class Gifts To Institution.

The second annual handbook of the Student Government Association, which will be distributed to students of the State Teachers College, as they enroll this fall, contains much helpful information for those coming to Maryville for the first time.

The book contains sixty-four pages of information and views and is pleasingly bound in a dark green cover. The school calendar is given, a description of Maryville and the College campus is included, and other detailed discussions of organizations, church, street directories and the Student Council Constitution are contained.

The handbook contains the following social calendar for the year:

Social Calendar.

October—Kryl's Band. Second Annual Homecoming Day. Hallowe'en Party.

November—Class parties. Motion Picture.

December—Christmas Party.

Athletics Regulations.

Each student of the College who earns the privilege of wearing the Varsity M letter during the next school year will be awarded a College sweater, according to the new handbook.

Conditions under which the Varsity M of the athletic department will be awarded are given as follows:

The Varsity M in track shall be granted to those men who have won at least six points in Conference dual meets or ten points in any track meet. Members of winning relay teams in Conference meets shall be credited with five points toward their letter. The winning of a fraction of a point in the State Conference meet shall be sufficient credit for a man to be entitled to his sweater.

The sum total of a man's points for any season shall be determined by adding together all points won.

The Varsity M in football shall be granted to those men who have played in one-half of the total number of quarters of all games.

The Varsity M in tennis shall be granted to those men and women who have won first place in either singles or doubles in the State Conference tournaments.

A student, to compete in College athletics in any term, must have made seven and one-half hours of College credit in the preceding term in which he attended college. He must be doing satisfactory work in seven and one-half hours of College credit during the term in which he is competing.

Student Loan Fund.

The Student Loan Fund, created by the class of 1917, has grown from the original sum of $60 to more than $1,000 and has been the instrument of furnishing college training to about fifty students, according to the handbook.

At present the fund is administered by a committee composed of Miss Hettie M. Anthony, chairman and curator of funds; G. H. Colbert, dean of the faculty; Mrs. A. R. Perrin, assistant dean of women; and W. A. Rickenbrode, registrar.

Class Gifts.

All gifts of graduating classes are listed in the handbook. The precedent of giving a gift to the school by the graduating class was established by the class of 1912 and each class since that year has given something to the school.

The class of 1912 gave the statue of the Greek goddess, Hebe, cupbearer to the gods, which stood in front of the entrance to the auditorium until 1923 when it was accidentally destroyed.

The class of 1913 gave a statue "The Discobolus," which stands on the first floor of the administration building before the entrances to the gymnasiums.

A Parthenon Greek frieze was presented by the class of 1914.

In 1915 the College received two beautiful drinking fountains, which were placed on either side of the main entrance of the administration building.

The class of 1916 gave the marble bench which is under the birches in front of the building.

In 1917 the gift was the Student Loan Fund endowment.

In 1918 the graduates bought liberty bonds to present to the school as an addition to the Student Loan Fund.

"The Scout," an equestrian statue, was placed in the library by the class of 1919.

In 1920 the gifts were two beautiful pictures, now hanging on the walls of the stage in the auditorium.

In 1921 the statue, "The Appeal to the Great Spirits," was placed in the library.

The drop curtains on the stage were given by the class of 1922. This class also presented a grandfather's clock to the Residence Hall.

In 1923 some much needed stage scenery was bought for the school.

In 1924 the class presented a heoric type statue of Abraham Lincoln, which was placed in the place of the statue of Hebe formerly stood.

The class of 1925 made a gift of an endowment of $250 dollars, the interest to be used to purchase books for the library.

All classes since 1917 have planted a tree on the campus.

GEN. ANDREWS IS CONFIDENT

consideration" he said. "Some men would take a bribe no matter what their salary. I want to weed out this kind as rapidly as possible.

"I want to establish an esprit de corps."

Five of Andrews appointments are former army officers and one is a railway director. The general said he did not want too many ex-soldiers.

"I don't want to appear to have militarized the prohibition unit," he explained. "It is a business proposition, which must be tackled in a business way and I want business men to help.

"I think I have the right spirit in the regional administrators just appointed. Some were just brimming over with enthusiasm for the chance to take command."

Since he took office, Andrews admitted, he has received thousands of applications for jobs.

Seven of the administrators were appointed provisionally.

"We will see if we have the right man," the general said enigmatically.

Those in charge of the larger cities are the ones whose appointments are provisional.

"These men are to have entire charge in their territories and are fully responsible for enforcement of the law. They are not going to be spied upon. They can hire or fire as they please.

"Those of us in Washington are going to direct matters of policy and look for results."

Closer co-operation with the department of justice is one of the bases of Andrews' plan.

Next to catching and prosecuting the big bootlegger comes the question of stopping liquor at the source.

"The amount of real liquor being smuggled into the United States is relatively small," said Andrews, referring to the "Colossal gullibility of men who believe the lies their bootleggers tell them."

The general went to El Paso in May and reached an agreement with Mexican officials regarding contraband. On August 22 he came to an understanding with Canadian officials and made arrangements for giving effect to an agrement about our northern border which was reached last year. Other treaties impend.

The coast guard has been strengthened.

"We will pay particular attention to the 'second line of defense' at the customs" said Andrews.

"Then there are the companies holding permits to withdraw alcohol for industrial purposes. We will examine these. We will inquire as to just how much alcohol they need and how it is used. If any of it is finding its way to bootleggers, we will revoke the permits in question."

Andrews has arranged that withdrawal permits shall come under the jurisdiction of those responsible for prohibition enforcement.

"There are the breweries," he continued, "and the stills for making moonshine.

"Each regional, administrator will be responsible for checking this illicit production in his district. But more especially each will seek to prevent the transportation of liquor. That is what we must aim at first.

"It is a business proposition. It must be accomplished slowly.

"I have tried to emphasize to the administrators that enforcement must be carried out in a dignified way, calculated to restore public respect.

"I believe we will succeed in making the country dry."

Barnard Church Will Be Dedicated

The Rev. J. T. Alsup of Maryville and Rev. J. Arthur Dillinger of St. Joseph Will Give Sermons.

The dedicatory services of the Christian Church of Barnard will be held Sunday. This church has recently been remodeled with a basement installed at a cost of about $4,000.

There will be a basket dinner at noon. The Rev. J. T. Alsup of Maryville will preach in the morning and in the afternoon the Rev. J. Arthur Dillinger of St. Joseph, a former pastor of the city, will give a sermon on "The Glory of the House of God."

Johnny Hines Here in "The Cracker Jack"

Spontaneous action, thrills, ingenuity and a barrel of laughs are the ingredients that go into the making of Johnny Hines' latest, "The Cracker Jack," which shows at the Empire Theater tonight and Saturday. According to reports Johnny enters the employ of his uncle and finding that the business is being carried on in a slipshod way, decides to put some brand new advertising ideas into effect in order to make the Perkins stuffed pickles a household word. Others in the cast are J. Barney Sherry, Bradley Barker, Henry West and Horace Haines.

The Mark of Quality

25 Years of

to Highway Transportation

25 years of anticipating the requirements of motorists—making manufacturing processes more certain—producing a higher standard of quality—25 years of unswerving adherence to the Firestone pledge, "Most Miles per Dollar"—summarizes Firestone's record of service to car owners.

Firestone factories have grown from a small building approximately 75 x 150 feet to mammoth plants having floor area of over 60 acres—from a capital of $50,000 to over $50,000,000—from an annual sales volume of $100,000 to over $100,000,000—all in the short period of 25 years.

This Firestone record could only have been made through furnishing the public with outstanding values and is, consequently, your assurance of quality and lowest prices.

If you would like to know more of this wonderful record, ask your Firestone dealer to send you an illustrated folder.

With today's high cost of crude rubber and other raw materials, Firestone's opportunity to serve the public was never better, due to its great volume and special advantages in buying, manufacturing and distribution.
